What People Are Saying

There has been no other decision that had caused us as much consternation as deciding with whom to entrust the safety, well-being, and nurturing of our 18 month old son. I cannot say enough GREAT things about MRA. The staff is knowledgeable, kind, caring and very educated. Our children blossomed in ways I couldn't have dreamed!

MRA was our first pick amongst montessori pre-schools we were looking at. We found MRA to be different with the Reggio Emilia approach on top of being a Montessori school. This is our child's first pre-school, and there is no better choice. Not only does MRA have a good environment, but it also cultivates a positive philosophy towards caring for and teaching children. The teachers here are also nothing short of amazing.

Since we started taking our daughter to daycare, the MRA team has been nothing but helpful and loving towards her. She has been learning so many new skills and has benefited from her time at MRA.

I couldn't be any happier with my choice of enrolling my two year old daughter into MRA. My only regret is not doing it sooner. This is all

The Montessori Method

We adhere to the traditional Montessori Method, viewing cognitive development as the result of individual-environment interactions. This perspective guides our authentically prepared learning environment. We acknowledge each child's unique learning journey and emphasize aligning the curriculum with their developmental stage. Our aim is to ignite a passion for learning, making the learners of today become leaders of tomorrow.

Reggio Emilia

Montessori Reggio Academy presents a program blending Reggio Emilia-inspired arts and sciences. Rooted in the Reggio Emilia approach, this philosophy centers on early childhood and elementary education. Our program embodies principles of respect, responsibility, and community, fostering exploration and discovery in a nurturing environment tailored to children's interests through a self-directed curriculum. Recognizing children as "knowledge bearers," we encourage them to freely express their thoughts and ideas about their encounters and activities.

The Reggio Emilia philosophy is based upon the following principles:

Our program is designed to foster a series of carefully planned successes, enhancing inner confidence and reinforcing the belief in independent and creative learning.

By combining Montessori and Reggio-inspired philosophies, we reinforce the view of the child as competent, creative, and curious. We offer a wide range of creative opportunities spanning arts, science, engineering, and math disciplines.

STEAM

STEAM is a national initiative used in all public and most private schools, so no matter where children go to school, they will be well-versed in STEAM, be critical thinkers, and be able to apply learning to real life understanding.

Why Montessori-trained certified teachers and Montessori methods?

Dr. Maria Montessori dedicated years to researching the psychology and education that inspire children to find joy in learning. Her methods, employed since 1910, have consistently demonstrated proven success.

At MRA, students engage in independent work tailored to their own pace, receiving personalized guidance from their teachers. Each student follows an individualized education plan crafted to promote their educational growth.

How important is Diversity and Inclusion to you?

We embrace diversity through ongoing special activities throughout the year. In our programs, inclusion and diversity ensure that every child enjoys equal learning experiences, regardless of race, nationality, skin color, socioeconomic status, or religious background.
